GENERAL MACDONALD

LONDON, Feb. 14.—It is officially announced that the British cavalry division under General French, Monday, February 12th seized the crossing of the river Reit, at Dekila Drift on the east bank, on which the sixth and seventh divisions are now camped.

THE BOERS FOLLOW BULLER'S MOVES.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The only war news of any kind this morning is an official dispatch from General Buller from Chieveley announcing a reconnaissance at Springfield, resulting in no gain of ground on either side. Captain Hamilton Russell, Lieutenant G. Churchill and ten men were wounded, and Lieutenant Pittington and six men were captured by the Boers.

The dispatch contains detailed accounts of what appear to be unimportant operations. They only tend to throw light on the situation by proving that the Boers are actively following General Buller's every move. From Field Marshal Lord Roberts at the Modder river, where all eyes are turned, there is no word.

MAKING ALL RIGHT.

A dispatch from Mafeking says the garrison there can hold out until June. General Buller's dispatch from Chieveley, dated Monday, February 12th, says: "The commanding officer at Springfield reports this morning that a squadron of the First Dragoon Brigade, on the morning of the 11th, captured a large number of Boers near Fustenberg. The Boers, reaching the crest of a hill first, opened a heavy fire on the squadron, which retired without supports, and the Boers retired."

With a detached part of his force Colonel Hannay detained the enemy while he pushed his baggage and main body through to Ramah. The object of the march was successfully carried out. Four men were killed, twenty-two wounded and thirteen are missing."

DEPRESSED BY THE REVERSE.

Lord Roberts' Base of Supplies Threatened By the Burgheers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The dispatches announcing the British "retirement" at Rensberg, are not satisfactory. "Our losses are not yet known," says the Daily Mail's correspondent. "There was not fighting all day and at night the British retreated. This news is the more depressing to London because General French was able to take Colenso. If the Boers are able to defeat General Clements in a decisive engagement they may threaten Lord Roberts' base of supplies at De Aar Junction. This unexpected show of strength by the Boers at Colenso has amazed those who were predicting an easy march for Lord Roberts through the Free State. The exports

LAI D IN THE GRAVE.

Funeral of the Late Alexander Dunsmuir Largely Attended. Magnificent Floral Pieces Sent by Many of the Relatives.

The funeral of the late Alexander Dunsmuir, the millionaire and a member of the well known family of Dunsmuir of Victoria, British Columbia, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Church of Advent in East Oakland. It was attended by a large number of people, many of whom had only known the deceased through his many and sterling qualities, though at the same time there were not a few present who had personal and business relations with the deceased extending over many years.

There was a stately simplicity about the ceremonies which was all the more remarkable because of the wealth of the deceased and which was in keeping with the rugged nature of his disposition and of the people from whom he had descended.

The remains had lain since their arrival from New York in Leitch's undertaking parlors, to which place had been sent a wealth of floral tributes, which it may well be doubted was ever duplicated in obsequies of the kind in this city. In these silent and fragrant tributes to the worth of the man were represented men in many callings, business men, professional men, masters of sailing craft and even the humblest man in the employ of the deceased.

The remains lay in the magnificent mahogany casket in which they had been brought from New York. The lid was partially open, and friends and associates took a last view of the man they had admired in life. There was scarcely any change in the features, which seemed to retain almost the blush of health and vigor.

The flowers were forwarded to the church and after they had been placed in position, the remains were borne to the edifice, the casket being lowered and lowered beneath and within a mound of flowers.

Among these offerings of love and friendship was an elaborate pillow of violets from Thomas Morton, San Francisco. Grace L. Trevor of this city sent a wreath.

Miss Brizola of San Francisco was represented by a wreath of violets. There was a broken floral wheel of roses, lilies, ammix and violets, eight feet in height, resting on a easel, on the feet of which in immortal words were the words, "We Mourn Our Loss."

On a broken tree was perched a dove, the whole forming a piece of rare beauty and expressiveness. This was a symbol of regret and love on the part of "The Boys in the Yard," as a card expressed it, meaning employees of the deceased.

E. F. Gerald of the Pacific Union Club, sent a wreath of white flowers. Mrs. James Dunsmuir, wife of the brother of the deceased, sent a cluster of pink flowers. E. B. Brock, an employee, sent a wreath of violets.

James P. Taylor of this city who has long handled the product of the Dunsmuir mines, sent a most beautiful and symbolic design. This tribute was a column with a rounded top, formed of oak leaves, around which at a graceful angle was hung a wreath of bright pink and roses. An elaborate cross of white flowers, ammix and ivy, ferns and lilies was the silent evidence of grief of the bereaved mother of the deceased, Mrs. John Dunsmuir.

A most elaborate wreath of autumn leaves somewhat subdued in coloring was a expressive means which Edna Wallace Hope, daughter of the widow of the deceased, employed to express her views on the demise of Mr. Dunsmuir.

The office of the Dunsmuir in Victoria, B. C., was represented by a large floral wreath. The employees in the office of the Dunsmuir in San Francisco sent a magnificent cluster of white flowers. The ranch hands on the property of the deceased near San Leandro contributed a large floral heart.

HOW TO MANAGE TRUSTS.

Specific Remedies Are Proposed at the Conference. Platform and an Address to American People Are Read.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—At the opening session of the anti-trust conference, called by the American Anti-Trust League, Prof. John S. Commons of New York was the first speaker. He was followed by W. N. Osgood, Massachusetts followed by Prof. Edward Beams of New York was the next speaker. He submitted the following propositions:

"First—Our patent laws must be so changed as to allow any one to use a patent, subject to a royalty to be determined either by the courts or by some commission that shall be selected for the purpose by Congress."

"Second—The tariff should be materially reduced in all lines where Congress, not the courts, shall decide that a virtual trust monopoly has been established."

"Third—Such a large tax should be imposed upon rental values of mineral lands as will prevent trusts in copper, anthracite coal, etc., from keeping out of the market enormous quantities of most valuable mineral lands, while they raise the price to the public of what they mine."

"Fourth—Elasticity must be introduced into our monetary system, so that any one by depositing Government bonds as security and paying a certain tax can at any time secure an extra issue of greenbacks from the Government."

"Fifth—Discriminations to favored shippers, which are eating out the very life of business as we have hitherto known it, must be stopped, and that right speedily."

"Sixth—The fullest publicity as to the accounts of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be secured to the stockholders and bondholders and to the proper Government officials, and all facts important for the general public should be published by the latter."

"Seventh—A Government tax on net profits, coupled with sufficient control of the bookkeeping to determine what they are, or under might be a tax on nominal outstanding capital in order to check overcapitalization."

"Eighth—The report of the Committee of Rules in favor of the original parliamentary rules. The report was unanimously adopted."

Louis F. Post of Chicago reported for the Committee on Platform and Resolutions. He said the report of the committee had been unanimously agreed upon, and introduced Prof. Willis, who read the report, prefacing it with a full list of the members of the committee.

STEEL KINGS WILL BATTLE FOR MILLIONS.

Carnegie's Ex-Partner Brings Suit for Accounting.

More Money at Stake Than in Any Similar Suit Filed in This Country.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. PITTSBURG, Feb. 14.—The announcement in the papers today that the long threatened clash of the steel kings had been finally precipitated by H. C. Frick against Andrew Carnegie and the Carnegie Steel Company, praying for an equitable accounting of the ex-chairman's stockholdings in the giant steel corporation, created a sensation in financial and manufacturing circles here.

The suit is regarded as the most important ever filed in connection with the steel business, and it is said that more money is at stake than in any legal proceeding ever brought in this country in which all the parties were simply citizens. Steel manufacturers view the trouble as a bitter personal struggle for supremacy, and are watching each move with intense interest.

The legal talent called into action by the suit is an array of the giants of the profession. The Carnegie Steel Company, of national repute yet to be included. On Mr. Frick's side are John G. Johnson of Philadelphia, David L. Watson of Pittsburgh and Willis F. McCook, for years the personal counsel and intimate friend of Mr. Frick.

Strangely enough, Attorney Watson is the man who originally drew up the now famous ironclad agreement for Andrew Carnegie which he has now been retained to have declared invalid. It is said that Mr. Watson spent the best part of three months in drafting this instrument, and declared that it was the strongest paper of the kind he has ever formulated.

CARNEGIE WILL NOT TALK. FERNANDINA, Fla., Feb. 14.—Andrew Carnegie is with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucy Carnegie, at Dungeness, in Cumberland Island. An effort made to see Mr. Carnegie failed. Colonel Fage, manager of the Carnegie estate, informed the reporter that Mr. Carnegie positively declined to be interviewed relative to the suit filed against him in Pittsburgh by H. C. Frick. Mr. Carnegie is visiting here for rest and recuperation, and it is understood that one of his attorneys is with him at Dungeness.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1900.

There is a fly in Brazil whose sting causes symptoms similar to those occasioned by intoxication. There are a whole lot of people here who would hail the advent of such an insect with ill-concealed joy.

What has become of that movement to insist on every Oakland storekeeper providing seats behind the counter for female employees? After a long fight, a measure of that nature has just gone into effect in England, as indeed it should everywhere, for its justice is apparent, no matter from what standpoint it is regarded.

The interior papers of practically every part of the State are already chronicling the unusually favorable crop prospects in their respective localities. It is case of "Here, too," as far as Alameda county is concerned, and if the winter season closes in as favorably as it began, California will this year reap one of the most bounteous harvests on record here. The pages of prosperity are evidently not half turned yet.

It will be noticed that the Examiner and other Democratic papers have suddenly stopped their harping on the expense of the extra session. They are shrewd enough to see that the people of the State are more than satisfied with the returns obtained for the $32,000 spent at Sacramento, and they are only hurting their own cause, therefore, when they keep the matter constantly in the public eye.

The anti-poolroom fight at Sacramento conducted by Mayor Clark and the Bee, aided by the ministers and reformers in general, has proved successful and the gamblers will have to emigrate. General Buller's experiences at the Tugela and cross the river into Yolo county or go out of business. Every form of gambling is under the ban there now, for the festive cry of "Keno" no longer causes expressions of profanity from the non-successful players, while with the ousting of the "ponies" the farewell of the sure-thing operators becomes complete. We congratulate Sacramento on becoming decent and hope that we will not soon be reading the sorrowful story of backsliding.

THE LIBRARY RUMORS.

Now that the final issues are at stake regarding Oakland's new library, it is to be hoped that the Trustees will take action to quash the nasty rumors that are being circulated regarding them. THE TRIBUNE does not take it for granted that the stories that the Trustees have entered into a combination regarding the architectural plans are true, but the mere fact that street gossip to that effect is in circulation calls for criticism regarding even the possibilities of such a condition of affairs.

As their official title implies, the members of the Library Board are simply in office as trustees for the people. As it is, therefore, clearly to the public interest and is furthermore the popular desire to have the competition suggested by the Ebell Society, the Trustees should not hesitate for a moment but should regulate the matter in that way. By thus catering to the available architectural skill it is certain that better results will be obtained than by merely entering into direct contract with any particular firm, and it must be admitted that the open competition plan dispels all possibility of the jealousy that might be suspected from a private arrangement.

There is one proposition that should be borne in mind at this time with the greatest concern, and that is that even if the slightest rumor of unfairness on the part of the Trustees should reach Mr. Carnegie's ears he would in all probability absolve himself from the contract voluntarily entered into by him. Furthermore, it cannot be denied that the ladies of the Ebell Society are entitled to the fullest consideration in this matter, for had it not been for them the Library would doubtless not have been brought to the stage where materialization is as possible as it is today. The Trustees should lose no time in demonstrating that they intend to do the right thing and that they will not permit even the faint of rumor to associate them with any dishonest tactics.

OAKLAND'S FUTURE.

It has been often asserted that San Francisco was built on the wrong side of the bay to retain its prestige as a great commercial center. It secured its hold in the first place principally from the fact that it was the most convenient landing for the ships that entered the bay during the era of gold, and the railroad bowed in obedience to this condition in spite of the demands of trade, which pointed to the eastern shore as the proper site for commercial operations.

Within a few months the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad will be running to tide water at Point Richmond, where it proposes to center its shops and erect extensive warehouses for the accommodation of its Oriental freight. What effect this will have on this side of the bay can only be conjectured at the present time. The new transcontinental line, having no local passenger ferry system to bring in tremendous cargoes, will have no particular reason to devote its energies to the upbuilding of San Francisco. Its object will be confined to the manipulation of its freight at the least expense to itself and to the greatest convenience of its patrons, and if this course is pursued the results of a very few years must necessarily attract attention to this side of the bay as the most convenient place to handle the traffic intended for the Orient and for the interior.

San Francisco is already cramped for room for its shipping, commercial and industrial interests, and will be long reach its utmost limitation in that regard. With us on this side, though, there is practically no limit to the available water front area, and when once the right kind of movement sets in, it will so develop that it is certainly within the possibilities that Oakland will some day eclipse San Francisco as a commercial port. The big city across the bay will undoubtedly be able to permanently hold most of the metropolitan advantages it has already secured, but that we will encroach upon its deep-water business is a certainty, dependent only upon our own efforts to secure the traffic that properly belongs to us. Instead of being sneeringly referred to as "the bedroom of San Francisco," Oakland will some day take place as one of the leading shipping centers for the great commerce of the Orient and South America, and it is this knowledge that makes every citizen interested in our future anxious to have the work of harbor improvement completed so that we will be ready to seize the opportunities that are now being created by the new epoch that is dawning on the Western world.

COMMISSIONER DE YOUNG.

California is well pleased with the selection of M. H. De Young as one of the National Commissioners to the Paris Exposition, for it is beyond question that the interests of the Pacific Coast will be well cared for in his hands. Apart from the fact that the State is complimented in having had one of its citizens chosen for so distinguished a position, it is certain that the nation at large, as well as the West in particular, will receive great benefit from the exercise of his executive ability and experience.

It is a matter of common knowledge to those versed in Pacific Coast affairs that as Director General of the Midwinter Fair, Mr. De Young achieved a triumph unparalleled by any similar enterprise. Although the great show was inaugurated at a time when the prosperity of the country was at a low ebb, he carried it to a successful issue both financially and in durability. It afforded one of the great advertisements that California ever received, and it may justly be said that the happy outcome was a direct result of Mr. De Young's personal energy and administrative qualities. As the representative of California at the World's Fair at Chicago, he was one of the moving spirits directing that great enterprise, and it was, in fact, while acting in that capacity that he evolved the idea of an exposition for San Francisco.

At Paris Mr. De Young can be depicted upon to advance the interests of the State in every way possible. He is a Californian to the backbone, and although as a national director his duties will not be confined to any particular locality, he will nevertheless not let an opportunity slip by that can aid the State. President McKinley could not have made a happier selection than in appointing Mr. De Young, for his proven ability for such a position assures him more than mere partisan endorsement.

Cecil Rhodes is liable to have a hard time of it if Kimberley falls and he gets into the clutches of the Boers, for they have always regarded him as the principal cause of their troubles. It was his energetic development of the diamond mines and his efforts to add a great South African colony to the British empire that first seriously attracted the attention of England's statesmen to that part of the world. It might not, indeed, be exaggerating the situation to say that if there had never been a Cecil Rhodes the present war in the Transvaal would never have occurred.

San Jose is now preparing for a race carnival. The Garden City well deserves to go ahead in the manner it is doing, for its residents are certainly imbued with the right kind of spirit, as is evidenced by the many enterprises with which they have of late attracted general attention. First, they had the Capital celebration, then the prune growers' convention, and now along comes the rose carnival—all within three months or so. That's the way to go ahead, for residents cannot sleep in the daytime in a town where there is as much booming as that going on.

If the State of New York can afford to expend $50,000,000 on the extension and improvement of its canal system, no reason can be offered why this great nation of ours should not be willing to invest double that amount in the construction of the Nicaragua ditch.

Mark Hanna is said to be so affected with rheumatism that he is compelled to limp along with the aid of a crutch. When it comes to politics, though, the Ohio Senator appears to be able to land firmly on his feet.

Snapshots Taken on Broadway.

"I found the funniest looking man in Oakland last night," said Police Sergeant Clark to THE TRIBUNE'S Snap Shot Artist. "He was walking down Broadway at one minute after midnight, and said that he was hunting for the path that led to Alameda. I took him to the police station to size him up."

Police Sergeant Clark Takes in an Alameda Man for Inspection.

"When I got the queer looking fellow in jail," continued Sergeant Clark, "I called in Officer Phillips to help me size up the fellow. Phillips declared that he was simply an Alameda dude, so we set him free."

Police Officer Phillips Officially Inspects the Alameda Dude.

"My friend Superintendent McElroy had his picture taken the other day," said City Treasurer Zach T. Gilpin. "He tried the new process of being photographed by a duplex, double-back-action camera with shadow towards the moon. This is the result:"

INSTEAD OF DEATH HE FOUND SLEEP.

Allendale Capitalist was Anxious to End Trouble.

Druggist Gave Him Sleeping Potion Instead of Cold Poison.

M. I. Goodwin, a well-known resident of the Allendale tract, last evening attempted to end his life by taking a dose of laudanum. Had it not been for his strange actions which aroused the suspicions of the drug clerk, from whom he purchased the supposed poison, he would have undoubtedly succeeded in the attempt.

Mr. Goodwin entered a drug store and asked for 15 cents worth of laudanum. The look of despair on the man's face excited the clerk's suspicions. He questioned Goodwin in a friendly way and the answers he received convinced him that the man was purchasing the poison with suicidal intent. He therefore, quietly substituted a harmless sleeping lotion in place of the deadly poison for which he had been asked.

Goodwin acknowledged having taken the substitute and for a time was very angry over its failure to produce the desired effect.

"I was tired of life," he said, "and wanted to shuffle off."

His friends are doing their best to dissuade him from making any further attempts to take his life.

Mr. Goodwin is in prosperous circumstances and is highly respected by his neighbors and fellow-townsmen. It is alleged that worrying over domestic troubles caused him to attempt to take his life.

STATE PAPERS ARE NOW SCORING THE TRUST.

The editors of Colorado have formed an alliance and demand that Congress kill off the paper trust by removing the tariff on wood pulp. The Colorado editors will attempt to extend their organization over the Union, and every member of the association will pledge himself to withhold the support of its paper from any Congressman who does not toe the mark—Bakersfield Californian, Jan. 22.

The main course of the Colorado editors in organizing to fight the infamous paper trust to a finish is one that cannot be too speedily followed by the newspapers of California, and of the entire country for that matter. Our Colorado brethren have hit the bull's eye in the business-like way they are going about their fight. Organization, and a thorough agreement on the weapons to be used in the battle for the public's rights—for in its ultimate analysis it is nothing less—are the imperative preliminary steps, and then let every paper enlisted in the fight serve notice on the Congressman from his district that he must take one side or the other—either stand forth as a champion of right and justice, by voting to repeal the tariff on wood pulp which has made possible the formation of the paper trust or else prepare to fight for his political life against a united and resource press.

There can be little doubt of the effect of such an ultimatum. The Congressman would speedily realize that even if he were disposed to defy the demand of the papers he could not afford to antagonize his own constituents. Yet that is just what he would be doing if he elected to serve the paper trust instead of the people who have honored him with their suffrages and pay his salary. A very brief campaign of education will teach the people how vitally their interests are bound up in the fight against the remorseless paper combine. If newspapers do not get the Legislative relief they ask for they will have no recourse but to do what every business man would do in a similar situation—raise their advertising and subscription rates to a figure proportionate to the exactions of the trust.

Understanding thoroughly why they are called upon to pay more for their newspapers, the people will not be slow to adopt the only effective remedy for the abuse. They will demand that their representatives in Congress repeal the duty on wood pulp, and their demand will be heeded—at least by all the Congressmen who are not bent on political suicide.

WILL TRY FOR A PARDON FOR GIRLS.
Captain W. F. Fletcher, ex-Chief of Police, is circulating a petition to Governor Gage for the pardon of Ada and Louis Holton, the young girls who were recently sent to the County Jail for three months by Police Judge Smith. The girls have been in jail for about three weeks, and they say they have had ample time to reform. They have promised to give up their evil ways, and have interested several citizens in securing their release. Among those who have already signed the petition are Police Judge Smith, Chief of Police Hodgkins, W. J. Hennessey, and

JURY SAYS ROBERT BISHOP IS GUILTY.

The jury in the case of Robert Bishop, on trial for the third time for the charge of arson, returned a verdict of guilty late yesterday afternoon, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court.

Bishop was charged with having set fire to his home in Golden Gate last October 18 in order to defraud the insurance company. There was strong evidence that the building had been saturated with kerosene. Myer's Herald has also been seen moving about Bishop's place the night of the fire.

In the first two trials the jury disagreed. Bishop will come up for sentence tomorrow morning. An appeal may be taken.
